

Name

Bryan Cook – Managing Director

Experience

For the past sixteen years Bryan has been the Managing Director and a Principal Investigator for Ashdale. His experience includes conducting and managing workplace investigations for Local, State and Federal Government authorities, operational reviews and workplace training.

Bryan has undertaken complex investigations into suspected corrupt conduct, grievances (bullying and harassment) and complex workplace issues involving senior management including CEOs and Directors-General of government agencies. He has also conducted and overviewed complex investigations into professional misconduct, particularly in the health sector.

More recently Bryan has been engaged as a consultant to assist large organisations to implement comprehensive complaints management systems and ethics programs. He has also been appointed since 2013 as a member of a Queensland Government panel tasked with reviewing Department of Communities' responses to deaths of children in Queensland.

Bryan has also developed and delivered training programs to a range of State Government, Local Government and not-for profit organisations around:

- Managing Unreasonable Client Conduct
- Code of Conduct
- Interviewing
- Workplace investigations

Prior to commencing with Ashdale, Bryan had extensive experience with the Queensland Police Service, including working as an Investigator/Reviewing Officer at the Crime and Misconduct Commission and investigating organised crime, child abuse and juvenile crime.
